BEN'S BOLT.
He Tells the Nebraska Farmer What He Knows About Monopolies.

And Urges Them to Stand Together and Fight for Liberty.
Gen. B. F. Butler arrived in the Bluffs by the C. & N. P. yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. He was met at the transfer by Col. Smythe and Dr. F. Lewis, a committee appointed by the People's party of this city to escort him to Omaha, and was accompanied by them across the river. The general's party is made up of himself, his private secretary, Mr. Plympton, and a servant. At the U. P. depot, Mr. Butler's party, Col. Smythe and Dr. Lewis took a carriage and were driven to the Paxton hotel. Mr. Butler immediately went to his room and remained there until 12:30. During the forenoon he was visited by many of the leaders of the working men's party in this city. He dined in his room at 12 and at half-past, the party, consisting of Mr. Butler, Col. Smythe, Dr. Lewis and Justice Bartlett left the hotel for the fair grounds.

A GOOD PASTOR.
The First M. E. Church Desire the Return of Rev. C. W. Savidge.

The ladies of the First M. E. church Monday night gave a sociable in the rooms in the rear of the church, in honor of their pastor, Rev. C. W. Savidge. The exercises consisted of a number of solos and readings by Mrs. E. C. H. Lounsbury, and Mrs. Hawver, Miss Edith Dan's and Miss Robinson. Mr. Savidge has been pastor of the First M. E. church of this city for two years past, and during that time has greatly endeared himself to the hearts of his congregation. He has been a hard worker and has left nothing undone which would tend to the good of his church or the cause he champions. The members of this congregation have a strong desire to retain the services of Mr. Savidge another year, and last night took a step in this direction by adopting the following, which were passed at the quarterly conference, held in the parlor of the parsonage: WHEREAS, It is well understood that, previous to the time of the appointment of Rev. C. W. Savidge to the pastorate of the First M. E. church, the condition of said church was discouraging, viz: WHEREAS, The present condition of the church is such as requires, and will continue to need the care and administration of its affairs by the man who, by the help of God, has inaugurated such favorable change, whereby not only the large debt has been paid, the building much improved, and a large number of interesting people has been added to the membership of the church; and WHEREAS, The quarterly conference of said church believe it is essential that our much respected pastor, Rev. C. W. Savidge, should be reappointed, believing, further, that it is not expedient to have a change of pastor in the esteem of the church by another, therefore, Resolved, By the officers of the church that the appointing power of the North Nebraska conference are hereby earnestly requested to return Bro. Savidge to serve as another year, and we respectfully request the presiding elder to present this resolution to his place in the eastern of the church by another, therefore, Resolved, By the officers of the church that the appointing power of the North Nebraska conference are hereby earnestly requested to return Bro. Savidge to serve as another year, and we respectfully request the presiding elder to present this resolution to his place in the eastern of the church by another, therefore, It is with pleasure that we call the attention of our readers to the "Garland Stoves and Ranges." They are acknowledged to be the best in the world, and we understand, many more of them are sold than of all other kinds in the United States put together. They cost no more than is often asked for an inferior article.

A COLLISION.
John Collins Druggery Demolished on Sixteenth Street.

Last evening about eight o'clock, as John Collins and his lady were driving along Sixteenth street, between Dodge and Douglas, a drunken fellow named John Schaedel came dashing up the street behind a high-stepping horse and before Mr. Collins could turn his horse to one side of the street the two vehicles had collided. Mr. Collins and his lady were thrown to the pavement, but the gentleman retained his hold upon the lines and thus prevented his horse, which is a fine one, from running away. Luckily neither of the occupants of the carriage were injured. The buggy was quite badly demoralized and was at once taken to the shop while Mr. Collins and his lady walked home. The buggy in which the drunken fellow was seated was somewhat broken, but he managed to draw himself together and again dashed off up the street in search of another victim. Seal of North Carolina tobacco the best. Army Orders. Leave of absence for one (1) month granted Colonel A. McD. McCook, Sixth infantry. Recruit Edwin J. Baxton at Fort Omaha, Neb., is assigned to the Fourth Infantry. Recruit William King, enlisted at Fort Douglas, Utah, is assigned to company A, Sixth infantry. Recruit Alfred Mansfield, enlisted at Fort Omaha, Neb., is assigned to troop D, Fifth cavalry, and will be sent to the station of his troop on the next favorable opportunity.

Monday a man named William Birch engaged in moving a house, had one of his feet mangled. The rollers on which the house was being moved slipped and ran over his foot. Dr. Connel was called and attended to his injuries, which are not likely to cripple him permanently.

A locomotive of a new and heavy class, built especially for drawing the overland passenger trains on the U. P. railway, has been built at the U. P. shops, and makes its first run this week with the state fair trains. It has the largest boiler of any engine on the road, with the usual size and number of driving wheels. It is No. 118.

On Friday last a sneak thief entered the back door of James Nichol's grocery store on Sixteenth street, and took $5 or $7 from the money drawer. Mr. Nichol was in the front door of the store at the time, but did not hear the intruder. The back door is kept locked now.

On Sunday occurred the funeral of Mr. M. C. Nole, formerly a tailor in this city. His funeral was attended by a large number of folks, who used every endeavor to procure a hand, but found it impossible from the fact that every hand in the city was engaged for that day.

Will the old gentleman who was rolled in the street car on Farnam street about half past ten yesterday and the man who saw the act call at the city jail to identify the thief?

By mistake, it was stated in THE BEE last Saturday that William McAdelle the man who committed suicide at 5th and Division streets, had attempted to take his life before. The statement, after investigation, is found to be without foundation.

Detective Pound, of Lincoln, was in the city yesterday in search of a lot of wearing apparel stolen in the capital city. The thief, a water-girl in one of the leading hotels in this city, was found, as was also the stolen property. The detective concluded, after recovering the lost clothing, that he would not take the girl back with him, and left last night for Lincoln.

The Academy of Music was comfortably filled last night to witness the very fine acting of McDaniel E. Bandmann in Shakespeare's sublime tragedy of Hamlet. Mr. Bandmann, as an interpreter of legitimate drama, has no superior in this country. He was very ably supported by Miss Louise Vaudet as Ophelia. It is quite refreshing to theatergoers to have the privilege of seeing such parts so ably handled. Mr. Bandmann appears again this evening in Richard III.

Mary Fields the innocent principal in the terrible tragedy, so well remembered to the citizens of Omaha, which occurred on the night of August 1st, in Mr. Orr's residence, on Pleasant street, has entirely recovered and returns to service in Mr. Orr's family Thursday next. Scarcely a trace of the frightful wounds inflicted upon her by her desperate husband remains. It seemed at first that recovery was an impossibility, and even after the preservation of her life was assured, grievous fears were entertained that the bullet which pierced her throat, fracturing the jaw, would at last destroy the action of the vocal or facial muscles. However, all this has been averted and the patient comes from the hands of Dr. Hanchett, her attending physician, with voice and features unimpaired and strength regained.

WOMAN AND WEAPON. They Make a Big Snack They Come to Time and Bog for Money. Monday afternoon Mrs. John Drexel caught a big burly fellow in the act of rummaging the bureau drawers and brought him to time at the point of a pistol.

For sometime past Mr. Drexel had been missing small things and as no one was in the habit of visiting the house who could be accused of such things, it was quite a mystery. Last Friday he bought a box of cigars and took them home. On Saturday he found that nearly half of them had been taken from the box. He inquired of his wife if she had given them to anybody and she said she had not. He then asked who had visited the house and she said no one except the ice man. Mr. Drexel then suspected him and told his wife to watch him.

Yesterday Mrs. Drexel asked a neighbor lady to tell the ice man to fill up the ice box and put the key under the door-step. She then locked herself in the house and waited for him. He came, unlocked the door and walked into the kitchen with the ice. He laid it down upon the floor and did not even wait to put it in the ice box but walked straight to the bureau, from which numerous articles had been taken. Just as he opened the drawer Mrs. Drexel stepped from behind the door, armed with a six-shooter, and told him to throw up his hands.

Who follow whose name is Bill Anderson, is a great big, strapping fellow, but when he saw the plucky little woman with a gun he wilted and begged like the great big cat that he is. He acknowledged having done all the piffling after which the lady marched him out to the wagon where his boss was and had him discharged.

He is a mean sneaking cur and if I would have served him right had the lady put a bullet through his cowardly carter's.

General Butler after a few preliminary remarks said that he had come to speak some plain words to this people. He did not mean to talk politics, but it was almost impossible to divorce agricultural interests from politics. God has blessed this country with a most abundant harvest and yet this year only half a crop is raised. Why is it so? Because it is of no use to raise two bushels when only one can be sold; because it is no use to raise three bushels when it costs two to get it to market. The speaker alluded to the beauty and fertility of the country he learned in one of the Iowa counties, Cass, that the farms there were mortgaged heavily, so much so that the county itself would not sell for enough to pay off the debt. He asked why this state of affairs should exist when money could be borrowed so cheaply in the east where the coffers of the capitalist are fairly bursting with wealth, and the warehouses stored to repletion with goods that find no market. If the people there could send their goods out west and get our corn in return it would greatly benefit both, but what comes the Nebraska farmer sells for fifteen or eighteen cents, costs the people of the East seventy-five cents per bushel. He then went into a general discussion of the cost of transportation, and said it was caused by the enormous interest that had to be paid on bonds and watered stocks. He alluded to the fast freight lines, which made skin bargains with the railroad companies, and then skinned the people in return. This deplorable state of affairs became a necessity during the war, when a chain of iron rails was required to bring the Atlantic and Pacific coasts in closer communication. The government gave away principles of land and then took a mortgage on it and allowed another mortgage to be given to outside parties. Railway transportation should be made as cheap as possible, but the managers have gotten away with the bulk of their capital, and the people have to pay rates that they could not live on.

Gen. Butler said he had always believed in Greeley's advice to young men to "Go west and grow up with the country," but he had been astonished to find that in nine cases out of ten where a young man came west and bought cheap land, lived in a dug-out and tried to make a home to leave to his children, they were barely able to live. Their corn cost two cents a bushel for shipping after they had raised it and it took the rest of its value to get it to Chicago, where the speculators accumulated it to their own advantage. A man can steal $3,000,000 worth of pork in Chicago and go unpunished, while another who steals a small sum to support life is sent to jail. The speaker alluded to the rise of the republican party and the treason of the southern democrats and said he left the latter party for his country's good, as he did now. That was 20 years ago and yet the republican party had not had power enough to give the slaves that had liberated a free ballot and a fair count. Why? Because in those days the republican party was as poor as the people's party is now, and they had of necessity joined hands with the capitalists and now corporations must control everything in order to create monopolies. What good had either party ever done the farmer in Nebraska? None. The one fruit borne by republicanism seems to have killed the party.

Addressing the democrats, he said: "My friends, I know all about you too. You have done nothing for 25 years. You have had no chances to, and are not to be blamed. He related the details of his call upon the democrats in Chicago and the demands made upon them and refused. When he came away, he said: "God help you, for I can't," and he added, I have a pretty good idea what he will do.

And now about the people's party. It was claimed that votes for its candidates would only be thrown away.

To the democrats, "Hav'n't you thrown away your votes for twenty-five years?"

To the republicans, "Don't crow! You have done still worse."

He likened the relations of the people and the two parties to the African tribes, which set up wooden gods and fought over their respective merits, the result being that the enthusiastic worshippers generally were all captured and sold into slavery and while the people are fighting for the party gods, the party generally reaps up all the profits.

The republican party originated with Lincoln's administration and the democratic party went still further back to Jefferson's administration. "If Jackson was alive to-day I would vote for him for he would say 'By the eternal, these wrongs must be righted' and they would be. "How can they be righted now? Only by sending men to Congress who will do the people's will or by the inherent right of every people, Revolution!" The Pittsburg riot will be repeated if the managers do not take warning, for men who have fought for home and our existence against such odds as those in Nebraska, will not see their homes swept away from them by any monopoly on earth. (A voice, "No, they won't, by G—d!")

General Butler said that if the people would put the power in the hands of the party he represented they would say, "Thus far shalt thou go and no farther!" The cry of over-production is made because the proper name was "under consumption," which was far different. When he saw a western farmer with patches on his trousers, while there was no sale for eastern manufacturers, that was under consumption, and when he saw people starving in the east while the granaries of Nebraska are bursting with their loads of grain, that he called underconsumption. The cause of it all is that the railroads will not allow the two wants to be satisfied because they will not permit the grain and the manufacturers to be brought together so as to enable all to live.

The laborer and the farmer have the power to elect a president and the general urged all to abandon the old parties, vote together, keep on voting as did the abolitionists and in a few years promised them that they would liberate themselves as the abolitionists liberated the slaves.

Three cheers were given for Butler at the close of his speech, and on his motion, three more were given for "The cause of the people."

Police Court. The fair festivities were too much for a number of the boys and they rounded into the city jail, each one in charge of an officer.

In police court yesterday Chas. Baker was charged with being drunk, and was fined $5 and costs upon pleading guilty.

John Miller was next called, and was asked to plead to the charge of being drunk. He said yes, and got his medicine, $5 and costs.

John Frederick, colored, was charged with disturbing the peace. He pleaded not guilty and his case was continued.

H. E. Baker was charged with fighting. He pleaded not guilty and explained that it was a family disturbance with his stepson, William McGaveck. Bill said that had always had trouble with the old man and that Baker had threatened the life of the whole family. McGaveck was also charged with disturbing the peace. Both cases were continued.

O. L. Wilson was charged with being a vagrant. He proved that he was all right and was discharged.

Martin Killmore, a boy 14 years old, was charged with being a suspicious person. He was discharged and told to make a honest living.

An auctioneer by the name of Reynolds was arrested for obstructing the streets. His case was set for 5 o'clock this afternoon.

A PAIR OF ROBBERIES. One Man Relieved of $210 and Another Lince $800.

Monday Captain O'Donohoe met a white man and a colored man walking along the street. The white man was quite full and the colored man was carrying his hat. The captain stopped them and asked them if they were acquainted. The white man said yes; and said that they were traveling together. The captain told him that he was getting pretty full and had better look out. That was the last seen of either of them until yesterday when the white man appeared at police headquarters and said that the colored man had got him down on the bottom during the night, and robbed him. He said he had $200 in his satchel and $40 in his pockets and the fellow took it all except 50 cents.

The thief has not been found.

Another Case. Monday night a Swede named Frank Limeron got full and claims that he was robbed of $80 in a saloon at the northwest corner of Twelfth and Harney streets. He was arrested and lodged in jail and the matter is being investigated, and if his story is true an effort will be made to catch the thief.

Traveling men seeing this invitation will please call the attention of others to it. Attend the meeting and induce others to come along with you, that we may have a large attendance, and much good result thereby.

Very truly, PAXSON & GALLAGHER, McCORMICK, HARLEY & CO., REED, JONES & CO., and many others.

Relieved of His Money. Yesterday afternoon a rustic individual, from Shelby, Iowa, named Davis, called at the sheriff's office and said he had been robbed of $50 on the fair grounds. Upon being questioned by the officer it appeared that he had been induced to venture a small amount on a game of chance. He was told by the sharper if he would put down a similar amount and double it for five turns and not win he would be given back all he had lost. The rustic kept doubling up until $50 was up on the board when the sharper seized the money and escorted through the crowd. On being told that he would have to stay in Omaha and prosecute the offender he concluded to let the matter drop, and later in the day crossed over the river into the prohibition state.
